

Each chair element = 5 or 10 movies depending on size of dataset

Toolbar to toggle genre

years as an animation or selected through dropdown menu?

Button

Chairs representing non-diverse films fade out, percentage is randomly distributed among chair elements so the left over chairs are not all next to each other

I like the idea of animating the progression over time so that it shows all the percentages for however many years, but I don't know if that's effective

If I show years then I can show increases/decreases and have another page after the animation with a line graph so it's all in one place and genres can be more easily compared

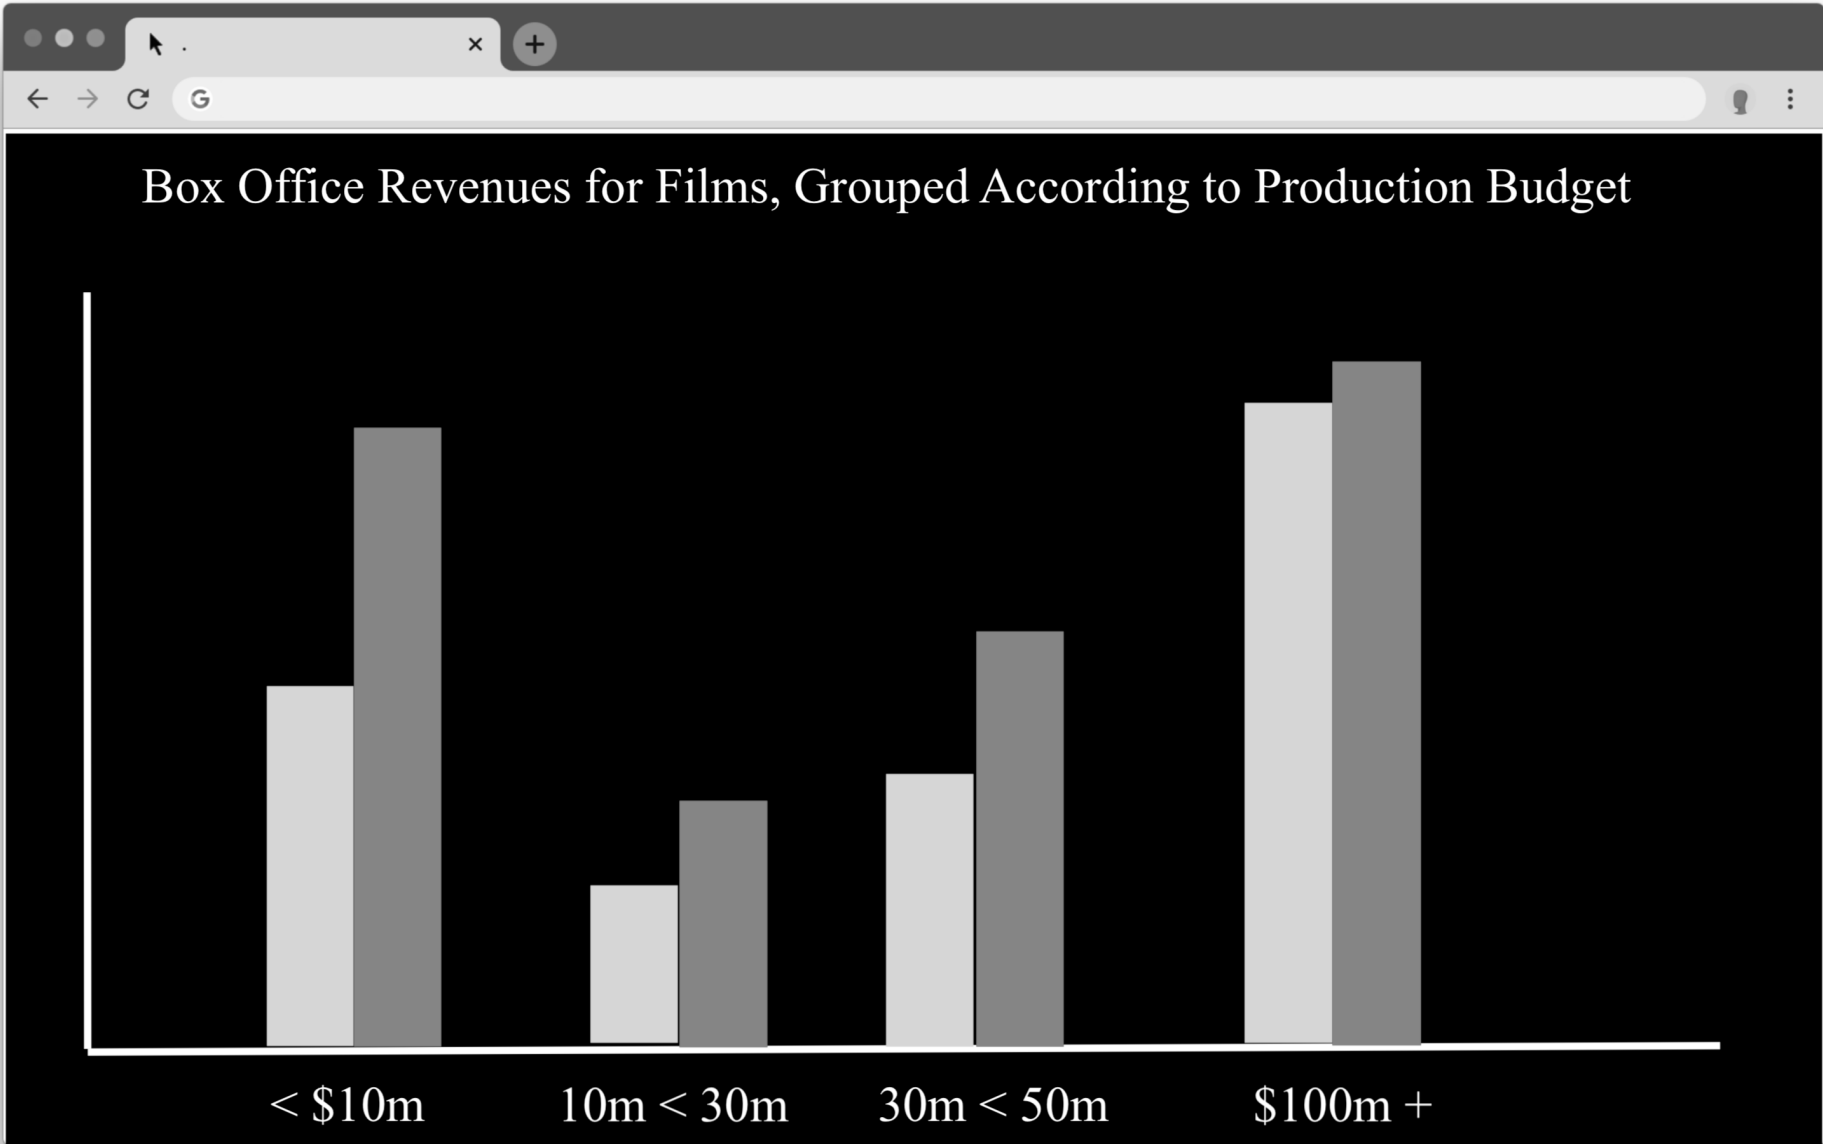

Shows percentage when clicked

Line for each genre + a line combining all of them to see overall diversity gains/losses

With this page, do I even need the chairs?

Y-axis = revenue

Include key somewhere on page, red (dark grey) = diverse directors grey = not diverse